HAVOC HEAVY WHEN GALE SWEEPS DOWN FROM GREAT LAKES

Shipping Tied Up and Extensive Damage Done on Land by Storms Visiting Central Ontario—Rain, Snow and Hail Accompany Wind Lashing Western New York

TORONTO, Oct. 3 (P).—Gales swept through waterways and over the major portion of Central Ontario tonight, tying up and delaying shipping and doing untold damage to trees. A large barge was blown off by coastguards. Coastguards from four stations went out to the aid of a barge, believed to be the Transport, of Milwaukee, which broke from her moorings and grounded at Whitefish Point, near Sault Ste. Marie in Lake Superior.

Strewn with branches Streets in Sault Ste. Marie and in Goderich were strewn with branches from trees, as the gale, estimated at up to fifty miles an hour velocity, swept down from Lake Superior and continued into other points in the chain of the Great Lakes.

Throughout the province the temperature dropped steadily. Goderich reported a fall of forty degrees. St. Thomas even reported snow, but it was only a light fall. Kingston said the gale was one of the worst in its history. Shipping was tied up on the lake and river. Frost was threatened.

For the fifth time in almost as many days storm signals were set at Sarnia to warn of the gale from the northwest. Several vessels anchored in the St. Clair but proceeded later.

The fifty-mile-an-hour gale also struck Port Erie. Three yachts, attempting to put out in a twenty- Continued on Page 2, Column 1.

PRIVY COUNCIL HEARS ASSENT

His Majesty Formally Affirms Engagement of the Duke of Gloucester

LONDON, Oct. 3 (P).—His Majesty the King today gave formal assent to the marriage of his third son, the Duke of Gloucester, to Lady Alice Scott.

Consent to the marriage was given under the great seal of the realm, the token of executive sovereignty. The seal consists of two massive silver discs, elaborately engraved and hinged together. The cord which is attached to the document of consent is inserted between the discs, and molten sealing wax was poured in producing an impression as big as a muffin.

MEETING IS BRIEF
The Privy Council, at which consent was given, lasted only a quarter of an hour. Attending were: Archbishop of Canterbury, Lord Halifax, Prime Minister, Baldwin, Ramsay MacDonald and Sir John Simon. Except for the ceremony of the formal consent, the council was occupied with routine business.

The King's return to London, it was said, was without significance in the international situation. His Majesty, in fact, is likely to remain only a few days, going to Sandringham for the shooting until just before the wedding.

The suggestion is mooted in Edinburgh that the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester will spend their permanent residence at Holyrood Palace.

Detroit Tigers Win From Cubs, 8-3, and Even Up Ball Series

Bridges Hurls in Masterly Style, While Chicago Uses Three Pitchers—Greenberg Hits Home Run—Next Game Played at Windy City

DETROIT, Oct. 3 (P).—Thomas David Bridges, the Tennessee thunderbolt with the crackling curve, came to the rescue of Detroit Tigers today and hurled them right back into the middle of the coldest battle waged for baseball's world championship in ten years.

The six-hit pitching of the slim speed-ball artist, combined with a blast of semi-freezing weather and a first-inning barrage of base-hits, halted the impetuous charge of Chicago Cubs. The final score was 8-3 as the home team drove the veteran Charley Root to cover with a four-run fusillade climaxed by Hank Greenberg's first homer of the series.

The Tiger triumph squared matters at one game apiece, with the warfare shifting from this frigid blast of semi-freezing weather and a first-inning barrage of base-hits, halted the impetuous charge of Chicago Cubs. The final score was 8-3 as the home team drove the veteran Charley Root to cover with a four-run fusillade climaxed by Hank Greenberg's first homer of the series.

Scene of New Hostilities

Arrows indicate routes by which Italians are expected to invade Ethiopia from Eritrea and Somaliland, while heavy lines at left indicate a highway from Addis Ababa to the British Sudan, construction of which has been progressing at top speed for some weeks. Italian planes are reported to have bombed Adowa yesterday, as troops from Eritrea engaged in battle with Ethiopians.

Supports League For Quick Action To Restrain Italy

Article of League Covenant Believed Violated by Hostilities—Opposition Develops in France to Use of Sanctions—Rome Reported Ready To Accept Sanctions Without Protest

LONDON, Oct. 3 (P).—Authoritative quarters said tonight the Government is supporting the League of Nations to the utmost for quick action to restrain Italy in its African venture. Anthony Eden, Minister for League Affairs, left for Paris en route to Geneva carrying the instructions of the Cabinet to do the utmost possible under the League covenant in pursuit of peace at almost the exact moment that word came that Ethiopia had ordered mobilization and that Italians had bombed Adowa from the air.

The Italian advances were officially confirmed here and at Geneva and elsewhere by Italian diplomats, who said the moves were necessitated "in the interest of self-defence."

SAYS COVENANT BROKEN
Authoritative sources here said they believed the Italian attacks violated Article XV of the League Covenant, under which nations cannot carry on aggressive hostilities while the League is trying to conciliate the dispute.

The Italian Embassy issued a statement saying the League was not called upon to deal with the situation.

TO DECLARE EMBARGO ON MUNITIONS
WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (P).—A proclamation for clamping an embargo on munitions shipments to Italy and Ethiopia was drafted tentatively at the State Department today as an extraordinary step toward insuring continued American neutrality.

The official confirmation that the undeclared war raging in Africa was an "outbreak of war" within the meaning of the new Neutrality Act was awaited by Secretary of State Cordell Hull and his aides recommending to President Roosevelt the issuance of the arms embargo directed by that statute.

SNOW IN ONTARIO
TORONTO, Oct. 3 (P).—The season's first snow reached Western Ontario today, in company with scattered hail and rainstorms and a miniature hurricane that damaged buildings at the Ridgeway fair grounds, near Chatham, injuring several persons.

WAR A FACT FOR LEAGUE TO CONSIDER
News of Actual Outbreak Comes as Committee Re-assembles at Geneva

AGGRESSOR IS NOW TO BE DETERMINED
GENEVA, Oct. 3 (P).—The League of Nations committee of thirteen reassembled this afternoon in an atmosphere of war.

Even as the committee met, advice came that Italy was pressing her attack. Twice the Ethiopian Government cabled protesting Italian air raids over Adowa. The first cable charged that women and children were among the numerous victims. The second charged that bombs were dropped on the Red Cross hospital.

TROOPS ADVANCING
Rome denied the Ethiopian charges, but announced that Italian troops were taking up advanced positions beyond their lines.

The committee is concerned with the preparation of its report to the Council on the whole dispute. Whether in view of the outbreak of hostilities the committee will proceed to make definite recommendations still remains to be determined. The recommendations now are of little more than academic interest.

The representatives of the great powers are hurrying back to Geneva for an urgent private sitting of the Council Saturday. Then the Council will face the question of determining the aggressor.

POSSIBLE PRELIMINARY
As a preliminary the Council may call upon both sides to withdraw their forces to a determined distance while negotiations proceed.

The Council is now proceeding under Article XV of the Covenant. Should definite proof of aggression be available, it is not unlikely that resort will be had to Article XII, which requires all members of the League to submit disputes either to arbitration, judicial settlement or inquiry by the Council. Resort to war in disregard of this obligation equally brings the sanctions article into play.

NOT VERY DIFFICULT
It is expected in League circles that the situation will be clarified by Saturday that the Council will have little difficulty in determining from independent evidence whether any aggression has been committed.

ONLY ONE MAN ACQUITTED BY JURY
Hearing Case Arising From Waterfront Clash
VANCOUVER, Oct. 3 (P).—An Assize Court jury today acquitted one man on charges of rioting and unlawful assembly growing out of the waterfront strike and convicted eleven others on the same charges.

William F. Foster was found not guilty of charges laid following the clash between police and striking longshoremen and their sympathizers last June at the entrance of Ballanlyne Pier.

Those convicted and remanded to the end of the Assizes for sentence are John P. McKay, Harold Malde, David Lyall, Einar Carlson, Charles Smith, James Nice, Alfred Bright, Charles Brown, William Kemp, Dan McLeod and Albert Stock.

Bombs From Italian Airplanes Signalize Opening of Warfare

Adowa Target of Surprise Offensive Called Reprisal for Artillery Attack on Reconnoitring Squadron—Ethiopian Charges Hospitals Bombed and Several Civilians Killed

LONDON, Oct. 4 (AP).—Reuters News Agency reported early today from Addis Ababa that the Italian forces advancing on Adowa were bringing into play artillery and airplanes, and infantry detachments moved forward.

ROME, Oct. 4 (AP).—The Fascist newspaper Il Messaggero announced early today that Italian troops reached Daro Taale, twenty kilometres beyond the Eritrean frontier and only twenty kilometres from Adowa, in operations yesterday.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Havas News Agency)
AT ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS, AS-MARA, Eritrea, Oct. 3.—An engagement between 50,000 Ethiopian warriors and the vanguard of Italy's advancing army took place today in the northern waste land region twelve miles from Adowa, according to military sources here tonight. Its outcome was not known.

Italian regular infantry, Fascist militia and Eritrean native troops crossed the Mareb River after two air bombing squadrons had bombed some Ethiopian trenches opposing their advance, it was said. The Italian troops met the enemy near Barkapit in their drive on Adowa.

General Emilio de Bono, Eritrean High Commissioner, was in personal charge of the offensive.

The headquarters command would not confirm reports that Adowa had been bombed and a number of civilians, including women and children, killed and injured.

The Italian advance was over caravan trails, indicated only by markers and sometimes trackless entirely, requiring native guides who marched with the advance columns. Their progress up a succession of steep inclines and down abrupt descents, with a gradual rise in elevation of 3,000 feet, was unimpeded until a point within twelve miles of Adowa, it was said here.

Thousands of Italian troops were ready at daybreak. The slow advance began by passage of the troops over the swollen Mareb River, in boats and via pontoon bridges.

Half an hour previously, bombing and reconnoitring planes soared away from the flying field here and headed over the mountainous, trackless interior.

The headquarters command said Ethiopian advance guard trenches were attacked from the air as a prelude to the infantry drive.

BOMBS START WAR
ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 3 (P).—The Ethiopian Government announced that invading Italian flyers bombed historic Adowa today, killing women and children, signaling the start of a long-awaited war.

Workers Clash in New Orleans

Numerous Disorders Break Out in Longshoremen's Strike—Many Are Injured

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 3 (P).—A shooting, a stabbing, beatings, brickbat throwing and general disturbances broke out in the International Longshoremen's Association strike here today.

The loading and unloading of ships went on as usual, however, with members of local unions, who have been employed for some time, working.

Five negroes suffered cuts and bruises when a crowd of white men and negroes bombarded the tugboat Sipsy with bricks as it passed through the industrial canal with dock workers.

Several shots were reported to have been fired. Twenty persons were arrested.

Three other negroes were hurt in scattered disturbances.

Warns None Can Get Rich by Employment Of Printing Presses

Premier Bennett Will Never Be Party to Any Act Which Will Destroy Canada's Credit—Flays Liberals' Trade Stand

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Oct. 3 (P).—Any Canadian who could be "so short-sighted, so disloyal to his own interests, as to believe he can be made rich by the employment of the printing press," might well vote against the Government, Prime Minister Bennett declared tonight.

"For no consideration on earth," he said, "will I ever make me party to any act which I know will destroy the credit of our country."

Mr. Bennett was discussing, in the course of a broadcast address over a nationwide hook-up, the measures he said had been advanced by some of his political opponents for the improvement of monetary conditions in Canada.

RELATED PROMISES
Discussing the alleged changes of policy on the part of Liberal Leader Mackenzie King, the Prime Minister said: "Why does he not stand on the bridge of Liberalism and go down with his ship so that his friends may mourn him and his enemies honor him?" Mr. King's recent promise to negotiate a trade treaty with United States, "after nine years in office when he did nothing," was described by the Prime Minister as "a last desperate throw of a desperate politician."

The Prime Minister's address followed his speech delivered at a political meeting here tonight. Mr. Mackenzie King, the Prime Minister, Continued on Page 2, Column 3

CAMDEN, N.J., Oct. 4 (P).—Flames early today swept the general warehouse of the New York shipbuilding Company plant, which contained many valuable patterns used in shipbuilding and some supplies belonging to the United States Navy. Several naval vessels are under construction in the plant.

FLOOD DAMAGING IN ALASKAN CITY
North End of Seward Cut Off by High Water—Several Bridges Washed Out
SEWARD, Alaska, Oct. 3 (P).—Reporting that glacial stream flood waters had done several thousand dollars damage to the line, Col. O. F. Olson, the Government's Alaska railroad general manager, tonight recommended that the War Department drive a diversion tunnel to save the road.

Flood waters cut off the northern end of the city when the Lowell Creek flume jammed with earth, rocks and debris. The water backed up half a mile, washing out several bridges.

The city was still without power tonight, having been plunged in darkness last night when the flood reached the electric plant.

Support Motion For Increases in British Defences

Neville Chamberlain Pleads for Filling of Gaps in Services to Protect Nation's Security—Explains View of Conservatives on League of Nations and World Peace

Bournemouth, England, Oct. 3. (U.P.)—Britain is rearming already, Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, declared here today before the Conservative party's convention. He called for unanimous support of the resolution on increasing Britain's defences, presented by Sir Edward Grigg and Winston Churchill. The resolution was adopted unanimously.

"As the other countries are not in agreement on 'disarming,'" Mr. Chamberlain said, "we must fill the gaps in our defence services to protect our security and enable us to meet our obligations."

"We do not support the League of Nations because it is the League of Nations. We support it because we expect it to prevent war by collective action. If it cannot do that, we should give up hope and withdraw, but first we should be thoroughly sure that it cannot fulfill our hopes."

DEFENDS OWN MIGHT
Observers agreed that the party, despite expressed faith in collective security and the League of Nations, was convinced that in the last resort the security of Great Britain depends upon her own might.

Recalling the traditional military policy of the Conservatives, the resolution said: "This great duty once again falls upon us. The great dictators threaten our liberty."

The very obligations of the League of Nations covenant oblige Great Britain to be strong, the resolution said, because "if we are not strong, there is no more hope for Geneva."

CHIEFS GREET APPEAL
Chiefs greeted an appeal for the issuance of a defence loan to pay for the rebuilding of the navy.

Referring sarcastically to a Labor party leader, Mr. Churchill provoked laughter by saying that "Sir Stafford Cripps is ready to fight."

"Mr. Lloyd George," he continued, "let himself get involved in war with the whole world. We Tories appear to be the only sincere pacifists in the whole country."

"The Socialist policy summarizes itself thus: 'Disarm and look for a quarrel!'"

FOUR OR MORE FOR EACH SEAT

Record-Breaking Number of Candidates Going to Polls in Federal Election

(By the Canadian Press)

Three days from the zero hour when every candidate must have filed his official papers and $200 deposit to qualify for the October 14 general election, indications today were that a record-breaking total of nearly 900 would seek election to the 243 seats in Canada's House of Commons.

Possibility of that figure, equivalent to four or more candidates for each seat, being surpassed, was seen by some political observers who expected a last-minute rush to swell the totals.

UNOFFICIAL NUMBERS

An unofficial compilation showed 860 candidates in the field. Of these 293 were formally nominated last Monday, when nominations closed in seventy-six constituencies throughout the country. Candidates will be formally named for the remaining 169 seats next Monday.

The Liberal party column showed a total of 243 candidates either already nominated or to be named on Monday. The Conservative list was 221 strong, while 169 candidates have been endorsed by the Reconstruction party and 120 by the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

The total was swelled to 860 by the addition of 107 candidates representing various groups, several being independents.

WARNS NONE CAN GET RICH BY INFLATION

Bennett defended the record of his Government, and discussed the records and programmes of those who opposed him in the general election campaign.

HAS CHEAPENED CREDIT

"I have taken every conceivable step," he declared, "that is just and right to put more money into your hands, so far as any action by Government can put more money into your hands. Your Government has done much. We have done more than any Government in the history of Canada to cheapen credit, to reduce bank rates, to reduce mortgages, to put the assets of the state at the service of the people."

"We have promised to relieve the mortgaged home owner. We have promised you a reconversion of the national debt. But I want you to understand that I stop short of any act which imperils the solvency of this country. I will not be part to any plan which may mean the ultimate confiscation of your homes, your farms or of everything which you have earned by the sweat of your brow."

FARMS AND MARKETS

Speaking of the vacant farms that were to be found in the Maritime Provinces, and the fact that Maritime Province people in hundreds of thousands, in recent generations, had found homes in the United States, Mr. Bennett asked the reason why this should be. The answer, he said, was the lack of markets.

"Anybody who would deny that would be a fool, the Prime Minister declared. 'Some of my political opponents come among you and tell you there are enough people in Canada to consume your products if they had means to buy them—if you could get them to their markets.'"

"This was partly true, Mr. Bennett said, but not the whole truth. Advocates of inflation told the people their purchasing power would be increased by inflation. That would not add to the wealth of the country, he warned. If the printing press theory of money were the answer, there would be no need for any person to work."

AIDING THE MARITIMES

But the Government could get markets, and had got them in large volume in the past five years. It would continue to do so. Maritime Provinces had been drawn closer to the markets of Central Canada, "both in your interests and in the interests of Central Canada." Under the Maritime Freight Rates Act, in the past eight years, the Dominion Treasury had paid on reduction and deficit accounts, the total amount of $65,000,000.

"This Conservative Government, I think you will admit, has done something a good deal better than talk about those things. We have given you greater purchasing power through reconstruction of our credit structure. We have given you better access to the markets of Central Canada in ways too well known to require enumeration at this time. But we have never told you, and I will never tell you, that this is the end of your difficulties."

Foreign markets were the great need, Mr. Bennett said, but he would not enlarge at this time upon the benefits secured under the Ottawa trade agreements and by use of the Natural Products Marketing Act. "When I look back upon the good old comparatively free trade days, I marvel that our old opponents were successful in doing so very little for you. I really marvel at Liberalism, whose traditions are so fine and inspiring, and whose present is so empty and hopeless."

Bombs From Italian Airplanes Signalize Opening of Warfare

A general mobilization order called Ethiopia's warriors to the colors. Although it was reported in official circles that the Italian minister had given his passports, they were withheld pending the arrival of Italian consuls from the province.

A special train to carry the diplomats from the country tomorrow was cancelled, but officials said: "We may give the passports at any time."

The emperor's imperial guard was thrown about the Italian legation to safeguard it.

EMPEROR PROTESTS

Emperor Haile Selassie telegraphed a full report and protest to the League of Nations. He asserted that a Red Cross hospital was the target of Italian bombs and appealed to world opinion to condemn such tactics.

Fighting was reported under way near Adowa. The Reuters correspondent said, "Italians were retreating in that section, under cover of their airplanes."

A government announcement said 100 houses at Adigrat and fifteen at Adowa, where Ethiopia crushed the Italians forty years ago, were destroyed. Casualties were unknown.

The announcement said, but it was believed the Italians occupied the entire town of Adowa.

GENERAL MOBILIZATION

Earlier, Ethiopia had proclaimed a general mobilization affecting its population of 10,000,000.

(A semi-official source in Rome tonight confirmed that an artillery fortress in Adowa had been bombed. It was said the attack was in retaliation for Ethiopian fire upon an Italian aerial squadron patrolling the border.)

Ethiopians said they believed that inhabitants were not warned of the attack and that it was intended to invite reprisals on Italians in this country, in an attempt to justify an Italian invasion.

BATTLE IN PROGRESS

The Government announced a battle in progress in Agame Province, between Eritrea and Adowa, with the Italians.

Anti-aircraft guns around the capital used real bullets for the first time. Troops patrolled the city, while many foreigners sought refuge in the various legations.

Natives maintained their traditional calm. Addis Ababa was bathed in sunshine with the rainy season at an end.

Ras Yohann, governor of East Tigre Province, near Eritrea, reported the bombardment. He said that in the early morning hours Italian planes flew over the city of Adowa and dropped their bombs.

TO MEET ATTACK

Haile Selassie was understood to have dispatched four regiments of 50,000 soldiers to Adowa to meet a possible Italian attack near Mussa Ali, where Ethiopia claims Italian troops have already penetrated.

The mobilization proclamation of the King of Kings was read from the palace balcony by the chancellor, Haile Woldegiorgis, after a session of the crown council. Drums and town criers carried news of the mobilization.

TO "DEFEND" TRIBESMEN

ASMAR, Eritrea, Oct. 3. (U.P.)—General Emilio de Bono, commanding the Italian colonial forces, issued a proclamation tonight to tribesmen of Eritrea that Italian troops will pass over the Mareb River through the Mellase Valley "for defence of tribesmen" against Ethiopia.

His proclamation was "issued to the tribesmen of the Mareb Valley."

Clans at once ordered their men toward Adowa when his experts determined that the shell fire came from that direction. The planes dropped all their bombs on an anti-aircraft fortress in Adowa and returned without a loss. Ethiopian losses were not determined.

Mussolini's two flying sons, Bruno and Vittorio, were on scout duty elsewhere and did not participate in the engagement.

Italy intends to carry out her programme without any declaration of war because officials call it a "colonial affair." Ethiopia's general mobilization, however, was considered creating a virtual state of

Public-Spirited Citizens Extend Financial Help

DURING the Rotary Club meeting yesterday, J. Carl Pendray and Herbert J. Pendray offered to contribute $250 toward the cost of building an automobile road over the top of Mount Douglas. Captain George McGregor pointed out that the present road goes three-quarters of the way to the summit. Several other members expressed their willingness to contribute, and directors will lay plans for the project.

war, whether Emperor Haile Selassie makes a formal declaration of war or not.

Overnight, the eager Italian troops crossed the border where yesterday small Ethiopian outposts were reported.

A MORAL GOAL

Adowa is one of the moral goals of Italy, for Italians say the scene of their defeat must be the scene of their victory.

The Italian public received news of the advance with complete calm. Fascist circles expressed a conviction that the powerful war machine of the Italian army would bring a speedy and glorious victory to Fascist arms.

An official denial was made of Emperor Haile Selassie's charge that the Italian planes had bombed villages.

SCHOOL CRAVATS ANNOY BRITONS

LONDON, Oct. 3. (U.P.)—Britons are aroused over the matter of the old school tie. Baskets full of letters are being written to editors—some of them in an alarmingly bellicose spirit.

Unscrupulous haberdashers who bootleg genuine old school, old regimental and old club ties to unauthorized persons, like costermongers and operators of pneumatic drills, are being called hard names in print.

COVETED CRAVATS

Maybe the clothing merchants aren't doing it purposely. Perhaps the purchasers, all individuals of low cunning, like troopers about having attended Eton in order to obtain one of the coveted cravats. All the same, it's the merchant's responsibility, declare an outraged people, and his the problem of finding a solution.

Old Etonians, old Harrovians and old Gordon Highlanders are plenty tired of walking into their favorite pubs and being confronted by bartenders on whose chests gleam the old red, green and pink stripes, or the equally hallowed blue, orange and brown stripes. It's disconcerting.

PAINFUL SITUATION

"Since seeing my school tie on a jolly driver I have taken mine off and never expect to wear it again," writes one anguished victim. "Is there not something that can be done to avoid such a painful situation?"

"I was a clothing merchant in the city for twenty-two years," it relates, "and in all that time I can truthfully say I never knowingly sold a school or club tie to an unauthorized person. I made it a point always to ask the customer if he were privileged to wear the tie, and if he were not I never hesitated to refuse his custom."

Such a practice, if followed 100 per cent by Britain's merchants, undoubtedly would curb the big cravat conspiracy.

ARMY OF SLIMS

LONDON.—If we could so marshal the great army to be rehousing from slum dwellings in the next five years it would take them nine days marching day and night in columns of fours, to walk along Whitehall.

G. H. Shakespeare, Parliamentary Secretary for the Ministry of Health, declared recently.

JUDGE TO GIVE VERDICT TODAY

Trial of Pat H. Howard Is Concluded—Point of Law Being Considered

Evidence in the trial of Pat H. Howard, charged with retaining in his possession 25,000 cigarettes alleged to have been stolen from the warehouse of W. H. Malkin here, was concluded in the County Court yesterday and Judge P. S. Kampen is scheduled to give judgment when the court resumes at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

The introduction of a document purporting to be a confession made by Howard was refused by the judge on the grounds it was not voluntary. Objection to filing the document was made by F. C. Elliott, counsel for Howard, during Wednesday's hearing.

TO GIVE RULING

The adjournment of court yesterday was because Judge Lampman desired to look up law concerning a statement by Carew Martin, counsel for the Crown, that the accused had not given a satisfactory explanation of his part in the offence and therefore, presumption of guilt, was to be inferred. Mr. Elliott objected to the statement.

The charge against Howard arose out of the theft of goods from the Malkin warehouse last December and for which two others had been sentenced to prison terms.

Kicks Rubbish and Finds a Treasure

TORONTO, Oct. 3. (U.P.)—A cache of stolen goods, including $1,500 in bearer bonds, a $4,000 mortgage, and some articles of jewelry, has been uncovered in a rubbish pile at Soldiers' Field by a groundkeeper who was about to burn the rubbish when he kicked a gold bracelet and picked it up.

The gale brought rain, snow and hail as it swept across western New York. A freighter was blown from its moorings in Buffalo harbor. It came to rest against a barge 1,200 feet away. Power lines were broken in several areas.

Says Social Credit Is Only Answer to Open World Revolt

Very Rev. Hewlett Johnson, D.D., Dean of Canterbury, Envisages Communism as Aftermath of Fascism Unless Increment Is Shared

"ABOVE all politics, and the only thing that will preserve the constitutional liberty and personal freedom that the Anglo-Saxon people hold most dear. Social Credit must come. Its only alternative is Communism. The national dividend gives economic liberty and personal freedom, and is sound and necessary, as well as ethically justified," Dr. Hewlett Johnson, B.Sc., A.M.E.I.C., Dean of Canterbury, said in an interview yesterday, shortly after he had arrived in the city from the Mainland to fill a speaking engagement.

The man who is perhaps the leading exponent of the Douglas Social Credit theories, was met on arrival by Rev. O. L. Jull and other Victoria clergymen, and escorted to the Empress Hotel, where at 9 a.m. he received newspapermen.

IS OUTSPOKEN

"The Smiling Dean" lived up to his name, greeting those who welcomed him with a broad, beaming smile. In the press interview that followed, he spoke with conviction and confidence, without mincing words.

Today at 10:30 a.m. he will meet Victoria clergymen at an audience arranged at the Memorial Hall, before leaving on the 2 p.m. boat for Vancouver, en route east through Canada and the United States.

Repeating his utterances that he was a Socialist at heart, a Liberal in the head, and Conservative by training, he said:

A WORLD ISSUE

"We look upon Social Credit as above all politics, and the most important issue in the world today," he stated. "It is the only thing that will preserve the constitutional liberty and freedom that the Anglo-Saxon people hold most dear. After fifteen years of forecasts and predictions, the only prophecies that have been fulfilled have been those of Major C. H. Douglas. I have but at very great cost, the cost of the publication of his first papers.

"We can see quite clearly that the only alternative to Social Credit is Communism. Communism is obtaining mighty results in Russia, but at very great cost, the cost of personal liberty and industrial freedom. Communism makes the first class business executive an underling to a second rate government official. It also sacrifices religious freedom, and, I believe, religion itself.

COMMUNISM SEEN

"In England and America Communism may come. It will not come directly, but through Fascism. In Italy and Germany they are tending towards Communism—through the creation of the corporate state. It will come. The people are not going to sit still forever in enforced idleness, lacking the things they have a right to have. Therefore, they will revolt, and there will follow suppression from above.

"That is why we say Social Credit is above politics, and that it can offer to each political party the things that the people are asking for and have a right to have, a share to everybody in the increment of association, of enterprise. The national dividend gives economic freedom. It gives economic liberty and personal freedom, and it is sound and necessary, as well as being ethically justified," Dean Johnson declared, in conclusion.

WILL DICTATE TO FINANCIERS

Stevens' Party Candidate Says Billions in Canada Controlled by Few

That twelve financiers of St. James Street, Montreal, controlled ten billions of Canadian money and eighty-five out of 100 major Dominion industries and they exerted a direct influence on the Government, was charged last night by Percy E. George, Reconstruction Party candidate, in an address delivered at South Park School. Frank H. Partridge, president of the local Reconstruction organization, also spoke. Herbert Boothman presided.

He elected, Hon. H. H. Stevens would call the twelve men into the House of Commons in an effort to have them voluntarily offer to place more money in circulation in the Dominion. Mr. George stated, if they refused, measures would be adopted to force their hands, he continued.

The electorate was tired of the old-line parties. Mr. George contended. He charged that D. B. Plunkett, Conservative member for the city, had displayed an "ape-like attitude." He stated no action had been taken by Mr. Plunkett during the time he represented Victoria at Ottawa. He felt that both the C.C.F. and the Liberal parties presented no serious course, which the Reconstruction group offered.

CIVIL SERVICE
Mr. George flayed the policy of the Bennett administration for what he claimed was party patronage in the high governmental posts. Under the Reconstruction party, advancement of civil servants would be strictly on a merit basis.

"The real issue in this campaign is between H. H. Stevens and the moguls of St. James Street," declared the candidate. The Reconstructionists offered, he continued, a time programme for the youth of Canada. There was a sorry plight, but a works programme would be instituted by the Stevens government, thus alleviating this condition. He claimed Mr. Bennett had "created more Communists than I could count in a week by his attitude to the recent Ottawa relief trek," Mr. George asserted.

The electorate today was not afraid to speak its mind, said Partridge, in opening his short address. Close to a million dollars was being spent by the old-line parties in advertising "the claims to make us think they are good fellows," said the speaker. This, he asserted, was an insult to the voters' intelligence. "Surely their records should tell us what they are," he stated.

VIEWS SOCIAL CREDIT
Mr. Partridge dealt with Social Credit briefly. He declared he was sympathetic towards its principles, but did not know enough about it to endorse it wholeheartedly. However, he thought the principles of Social Credit were "very fine."

The major plank in the Stevens party plank was the booting up of credit and revising the financial activity of the Dominion of Canada, he declared. Over-capitalization to the extent of 500 per cent was a major cause of the depression, and this would be removed as far as possible under Mr. Stevens, he continued.

STUDENTS ANXIOUS FOR REPRESENTATION

TORONTO, Oct. 3.—The forthcoming Dominion election has aroused new agitation among students in the University of Toronto for representation at Ottawa.

The Variety, undergraduate newspaper, submits that the university should be entitled to a representative in the Federal House in the same way that the English universities are represented in the British House of Commons.

TO FILE HIS NOMINATION

Trustee P. E. George, Reconstructionist, Will Make Entry Officially Today

Candidates officially nominated in the Victoria Federal riding will extend to three today, when Percy E. George, candidate for the Stevens Reconstruction Party, files his papers with the returning officer here. Mr. George said yesterday that he was completing the forms necessary and would make his nomination official this morning.

Reconstructionists in the city believe Mr. George will carry not only the votes of the Stevens group here, but will draw support also from social credit adherents, whose principles he has in a personal capacity adopted. They point to the support given to Mr. George in the school board elections as another factor in his case.

FOUR TO RUN

Previous nominations included those of Prof. J. King Gordon, C.C.F. candidate, who was the first to put in his papers. He was followed by D. B. Plunkett, Victoria's representative in the last and previous House of Commons, Ottawa and Conservative candidate in the present election.

Jack McDowell, Liberal nominee, is expected to complete his papers shortly, and to file them before the close of nominations, which occurs at 2 p.m. Monday.

All candidates in the Federal election have to put up a $200 deposit with the Receiver-General. The money is returned if the candidate receives half the number of ballots going to the successful nominee at the polls. Deposit money at stake in Victoria will amount to $800.

MAKING GREAT PREPARATIONS

Dr. REV. RICHARD ROBERTS, D.D.

Energetic planning for the approaching visit of Rt. Rev. Richard Roberts, D.D., the Moderator of the United Church of Canada, was accomplished at a meeting this week of the ministers and lay representatives of church boards and young people's societies. The distinguished church leader will preach twice on Sunday, November 3, and will hold two meetings on both Monday and Tuesday, November 4 and 5.

In preparation for the spiritual benefits of the three days' mission, joint prayer services will be held during the preceding four weeks. Neighboring congregations will meet, two or three at a time, for religious fellowship, the group gatherings culminating in a city-wide prayer service on Wednesday, October 30, a few days before the Moderator's coming.

A LAYMEN'S LUNCHEON

Choirmasters of the several churches were given charge of the services of song on Monday and Tuesday evenings, and the young people's rally will be handled by the presidents of the various societies, in co-operation with the United Church Young People's Union of the city.

About two hundred laymen are expected to meet for a luncheon address on Monday.

Dr. Roberts will conduct a retreat on Tuesday for all the city ministers.

Asks Huge Sum And Gets Nothing

MONTREAL, Oct. 3.—Chief Justice R. E. E. Greenhalgh, in Superior Court today, dismissed suit of Eileen Mackay, sixteen-year-old nursemaid, against McGill University for $65,000 damages for injuries allegedly received when struck by a cricket ball on McGill campus in July, 1934.

The case was dismissed after a jury failed to find any ground for compensating the girl. A verdict of "no claim" was returned after less than an hour's deliberation.

TRADE LICENCE MOVE STOPPED

Threat by City of Retaliation Puts Halt to Collections By Saanich

Collection of trade licences by the Saanich municipality from city merchants delivering goods in Saanich has been halted, it is understood, as a result of the City Council's threat to retaliate.

It was learned at the City Hall yesterday that legal opinion had been secured in connection with a complaint from the Hillside Purify Store, which had been informed that it would have to pay a trades licence to Saanich if it proposed to deliver goods in that municipality.

It is not known whether the Hillside grocery would be liable to pay a trades licence to Saanich under the circumstances, since it already pays a licence to the city for carrying on a business establishment in the city.

RECIPROCAL PACT

H. S. Pringle, city solicitor, points out that a reciprocal arrangement can be entered into between the city and other municipalities in connection with the collection of trades licences providing a three-fifths majority of the council favors the reciprocal arrangement.

However, Mr. Pringle says, "what, in my opinion, is of greater importance to the city is to know whether or not the municipality of Saanich intends as a matter of principle and practice to exact trades licences from Victoria merchants trading with Saanich residents. If I have been informed correctly, many Saanich traders likewise do a very considerable business with Victoria residents, and, accordingly, would be subject to licences under the city's trades licence by-law."

On this day remember that: "No man is happier who does not think himself so." Your own mental reactions may need regulating, so get yourself in the right state of mind if you wish a thoroughly enjoyable day. There is a likelihood of your undertaking to accomplish more than you can do well, so be careful in this respect to use common sense. It will be poor judgment to ignore any reasonable questions or requests. This day should be a good one to take an active interest in helping to promote some form of social activity, paying visits or planning entertainments. Married or engaged couples, and those whom Cupid is trying to guide in the right direction, should be discreet in making any remarks of a personal nature, and should avoid criticizing relatives, or friends.

If a woman and October 4 is your birthday, you are probably a lover of adventure. You love to be on the go. Crowds possible have a fascination for you. Things of a theatrical nature are likely to have a strong appeal and the probability is that you have a good deal of dramatic ability. You may be inclined to be headstrong, or perhaps impulsive. ## ELECTION ISSUES

It may be that in some parts of Canada, perhaps particularly in the present election, is regarded as an exciting one. In this constituency, however, it is of a very prosaic character. Elsewhere class feeling exercises an influence which raises temperatures. The presence of so many parties, and therefore so many candidates, in the field, has served to confuse issues. The fact is that there is no outstanding issue on which all parties are concentrating. There is, instead, a babel of voices. It would be small wonder if a considerable proportion of the electorate were confused and if the evidences of this are seen in the results though the hope is that this will not prove to be the case.

There are three issues that should dominate all others in the present contest. One is the financial problem, a part of which is the heavy losses being sustained by the Canadian National Railways. The second is the question of trade policy, and the strong presentment made by Mr. R. B. Bennett and the Conservatives on what has been accomplished by the Government in its respect. The third issue is that of rural methods for dealing with the unemployment problem. It is only the Conservatives who have treated upon all these issues in a comprehensive way. More than any of the other parties they have kept their feet on the ground. They have not been profuse in promises but have concerned themselves mainly with recounting the performances of their regime and building up substantial arguments to show how the legislation of the past five years has benefited the country and promoted conditions which are gradually restoring normal times.

Out of the morass of opinions expressed by speakers in the present campaign nothing has emerged so definitely as the logic of Premier Bennett's arguments. He has been forceful and convincing, and more than any other speaker has confined himself to actualities not theories. His progress through the country has confirmed many wavering Conservative votes, has won many converts and has placed before the people in clear and unmistakable fashion the problems confronting the Dominion. If those problems are not in first place in the minds of the people when they go to the polls it will not be the fault of Mr. Bennett and the Conservatives. Their campaign has been based on the bedrock of common sense. It is an appeal to reason. Their opponents have built up fanciful theories; they have been wild in promises, many of which would be quite incapable of performance. Mr. Bennett has promised nothing save on the basis of what has already been achieved by the Government. He has thus taken safe ground, and no one knows better than he does what are the possibilities and limitations of what government can effect for the general welfare. It may be hoped that the result of the Federal election will be an expression of sanity in outlook and an evidence that men's minds are again becoming attuned to actualities.

IN FREE COUNTRIES

The freer a country is the more widely its newspapers are read. Where there are dictatorships the press is censored, it is suppressed, and its circle of readers declines. This is illustrated by statistics. From 1927 to 1934 the volume of newspaper consumed in Great Britain increased from 844,000 to 1,291,000 tons. In France it increased from 235,000 to 400,000 tons. Of these countries, where newspapers are most widely read, Great Britain is in the lead; the United States is second; Australia and New Zealand third, Argentina fourth, Holland fifth, France sixth and Scandinavia seventh.

While Great Britain uses 57.5 pounds of newspaper per capita, Russia only uses 2.4 pounds. Italy, where there is a dictatorship, only uses 3.6 per capita, and Germany only 11.6. A censored press means heavy declines in the circulation of newspapers. Under Communist, Fascist and Nazi rule people are only supposed to read in the newspapers what their dictators want them to read. That is a part of their "planned economy." Such planning is only possible by hoodwinking the people. News and editorials are warped. The people are regarded as sheep who are only given what is supposed by their dictators to be good for them. Where there is freedom of the press dictatorship cannot survive, and neither Communism nor Socialism is possible.

EDUCATIONAL DEFICIENCIES

No less an authority than Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, the head of Columbia University, and foremost in the ranks of noted Americans, says that the modern system of education has not done and is not doing the work expected of it. That is a disturbing judgment in a day when so many claim that the modern school system is functioning so well and is doing more than has ever been done before to equip youth for the battle of life. There is, however, some truth in what Dr. Butler says, for one thing there is altogether too little character development in national educational systems. Dr. Butler believes in old-fashioned ways. "The little red schoolhouse," he says, "was an almost ideal educational instrument" in comparison with "the complex programmes of study offered in modern schools."

Present-day educational authorities who are concerned with the making of school curricula will not doubt admit that too many superfluities have been introduced into the system. They are susceptible in their responses to every claim for adding fads and frills. It is obvious to the impartial observer of the results being achieved that too little stress is being laid on the weightier matters of education, on those foundational subjects in which a solid groundwork is needed if any educational system is to be justified. There is at least some reason to believe that the present plan is too complex. That is Dr. Butler's contention, and he should know a great deal about educational matters.

Doubtless scores of other educationists will rise up in defence of the existing system and claim that it is fully justified by results. The subject is necessarily a controversial one. It always will be. One comment on the educational problem is that the state of men's minds in these latter days indicates that whatever the present system has achieved it is not proving a steady influence on the mental outlook. That obviously means there is something wrong with it. No educational system is all that could be desired when it promotes chaotic opinions affecting most of the problems of the time.

FIREWALKING

Firewalking is practised by natives at religious ceremonies in India and elsewhere. There has always been some doubt about the authenticity of the claim that it can be indulged in without any injury. Now it has been demonstrated that it is possible, as evidenced to the satisfaction of members of the University of London Council for Physical Research. A young Indian, Kuda Bax, has performed the feat with "sustaining any injuries. In India the practice is carried out by priests, fakirs and other ascetics. It consists in walking barefoot with immunity over the glowing embers of a fire in a long trench. This feat has been made at Carlsbad, Kuda Bax made the claim that his ability was due to the strength of his faith that the fire would not harm him.

The fire was laid in two trenches about twelve feet long. For materials seven tons of oak logs, a ton of firewood, a load of forest-burnt oak charcoal and ten gallons of paraffin were used. The fire trenches had been burning for eight hours when the test was made. The surface heat was 800 degrees Fahrenheit. Kuda Bax walked twice along the length of one of these twelve-foot trenches with his feet making contact with the burning embers for some five seconds each time. His feet were then examined, found without trace of injury and the recorded temperature of them was the same as before he started the experiment. Kuda Bax explained that while he felt the heat when standing near it he was not conscious of it when walking on the embers. There was no unusual toughness or thickening of the soles of the man's feet. From this experiment it would seem that firewalking can be indulged in without faked conditions.

THE PASSING OF CAESAR

To his proud lips they press the cup of Death—
 The tarnished cup of treachery and hate—
 While burns upon his cheek the murderous breath
 Of Brutus whom he loved. Now hangs the fate
 Of Rome on sullied scales. Usurped now
 The mighty Caesar's sceptre and his sword;
 His spirit doomed in martyrdom to breathe
 As here, at Pompey's feet, his blood is poured.
 Through eyes swift closing in eternal sleep,
 He sees again the blue Ionian Sea;
 Hears the lament of sobbing winds that sweep
 The shores of far Cilicia wild and free.
 Across the mists of death behold he still
 The sea-encircled slopes of Lesbos Isle.
 While galleons wait, beneath the harbor hill
 To waft his soul to Egypt—the Nile!

"VALLEY OF THE SHADOW"

God, I am traveling out to death's sea,
 I, who exulted in sunshine and laughter,
 Dreamed not of dying—death is such waste of me!
 Grant me one prayer: Doom not the hereafter
 Of mankind to war....
 ... Let not my sinking
 In dark be for naught, my death a vain thing!
 God, let me know it the end of man's career!
 Make my last breath a bugle-call, carrying Peace o'er the valleys and cold hills for ever!

—John Galsworthy.

The Ethiopian Legion in London has issued the following instructions on pronouncing names now appearing frequently in the news: Adia Ababa is "Ah-dees Ah-bah-bah"; Haile Selassie is "High-leh Sil-les-see"; Lake Tsana is "Sah-nah"; Adowa is "Ah-duwah"; Jijigala is "Gee-gee-gah"; Ogaden is "Oo-gah-den";—Calgary Herald.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Now in the name of all the gods at once, upon what need dash this our Caesar?

That he is grown so great?—Shakespeare.

There never was a good war or a bad peace—Franklin.

The groups of men on the streets appear to have been right and we seem to have been wrong. There are groups of men on the streets every day, some of them near the newspaper bulletin boards and some of them on the street corners, and they are all discussing the inevitability of war in Africa and the probability of another world war. If the war that is at present in prospect were confined to a potentially unimportant part of the Dark Continent, that might make the flesh creep, but it would not make the blood run cold. There would be little use in discussing the fact that human nature pants after sensational things. The truth, therefore, cannot be gainsaid that the news in the papers and on the bulletin boards would lose all human interest if Mussolini were to recall his legions from Africa and declare that there must be no war.

We have declared and hoped that common sense would conquer ambition and fanaticism and the dictator of Italy admit that the great game he had in contemplation in face of the hostility of the greater part of the world was not likely to be worth the candle and sheath his sword. In that matter we appear to have been wrong and the groups of debaters on the streets right. We do not know precisely what the issue may be, but Mussolini seems determined, like another great fighter, and really a great and proved fighter, to "put it to the touch." He is a wayfarer on a road which has no turning and no apparent end but that of disaster. He is committed to a definite course and cannot turn back, because turning back might be more fatal than going forward. The judgment upon Ephraim is upon him. "He is joined to his idols; let him alone."

So if Mussolini is irrevocably bent upon war, we trust the other nations will let him alone. It cannot be said of him that "thrice armed is he who hath his quarrel just." Hostilities have been suspended for two apparent reasons, the state of the weather in Ethiopia and the necessity for justification by provocation. There is a paragraph in the code of the League of Nations which provides for international "sanctions" against the nation which is proven to be the aggressor. If the forces of Haile Selassie could be convicted of committing the first overt act, then Benito Mussolini might plead with an appearance of justification that as the attacked party his quarrel was just and the peacemakers would have no justification for interference.

But against that plea or pretence there is the fact that Italian troops have been pouring into Africa for months, that squadrons of ships have been delivering implements and munitions of warfare in the Italian possessions of Africa for a corresponding period, that the dictator has repeatedly declared his intention of seeking revenge for a disaster which befell the arms of his country about forty years ago when bent upon conquest, and that he would be satisfied with nothing less than the complete subjugation of Abyssinia and its nomadic tribes. It would be nonsense to argue that the Government of Ethiopia, however rude and uncultured it may be, had any aggressive intentions in regard to a powerful state such as Italy.

Those who hope for war are likely to see their hopes realized. Like another political potentate drunk upon notions of ambition, Mussolini has been waiting for an excuse for executing what the bridge players call a "grand coup." The state of affairs at home were so desperate that something had to be done to justify the dictatorship. The conditions in Europe precluded a war of aggression for the purpose of diverting the minds of Italians from domestic unrest and adding to territorial possessions. Across the Mediterranean there was a rude and uncultured country ruled by a magistrate who called himself an Emperor. No foreign nation could possibly be interested in the fate of the fortunes of barbarous Ethiopia. If there were any such nations without-of-date and fantastic notions about individual freedom and the inalienable rights of self-government, those nations could be placated by pointing out that the ancient culture of Rome was more to be desired than the barbarism of an insignificant African state.

That old proverb about what the gods do to those they wish to destroy may in the end be applicable to the case of Mussolini. For according to the advice which are coming over the wires daily, difficulties are accumulating upon the heads of the unfortunate Italian soldiers before a single shot has been fired in the war. There are said to be eleven thousand sick men in a single hospital, returned from the scene of prospective hostilities for medical treatment. The dictator's glories may all be behind him and his disasters all in front of him. History records this of all dictators: Their days are comparatively few and their ends superlatively inglorious.

Old Soldiers Never Die
 There is no pavement lay two dead soldiers—their necks broken. Their once smart and haughty caps lay in a disheveled broken condition beside them—their once proud jackets, now trampled and torn, cast in the gutter. No one could tell the valiant soldiers their purpose in this life fulfilled they were carelessly cast aside, their places to be taken by younger ones imbued with the spirit of life. Don't get alarmed folks, they were just a couple of empty beer bottles.—W.F.F.

Can't Blame 'Em
 Football players complain that few persons turn out to see them in the noble sport. We went to a game Wednesday and found out why. Spectators have to sit on the damp grass, or else strain their arches standing.... fields are often dusty because of lack of co-operation from the parks board.... fans never get to see the players.... a stranger cannot find out who scores a goal unless he knows all the players or else sits next to a regular patron.... nobody announces the score.... why couldn't the players wear numbers?.... and intersperse his frequent whistle-toting with who scored what for which?... why not introduce a clock before the game?... it seems to us that if some of these suggestions were followed, the game would have more followers.—G.B.

Vacant Pedestals
 Mark Twain wrote that there were two subjects about which man did not think at all. One, he said, was politics. Had he not been a kindly, tolerant man, one suspects Mr. Clemens could have singled greatly on the list. Thousands of years ago in Athens they caught one man thinking. They made a statue of him, to preserve the rare example. The present generation, though dense in oils, dense in stocks, and dense in foreign bonds, does not appear destined to be done in marble for the benefit of posterity. We may be wrong, of course. There was one man who sat on a fable to a fable for thirty-six hours; another who pushed a peanut up Pike's Peak with his nose; and not a few who have spoken for an hour in public without saying anything. Time alone can tell.—S.G.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of October 4, 1885)

Football game—A spirited game of football was played at Beacon Hill on Saturday afternoon when about twenty-five players were present. Very few goals and a good fast game played for one hour. Spectators, among whom were a large number of ladies, greatly enjoyed the game with their presence. Next Saturday the Victorians will play against the "Watts" and judiciously the starry spectators, the match promises to be well contested.

Railway Lands—Mr. Bray, assistant commissioner of lands and works for Nanaimo, has issued a record of railway lands taken up within the district of Nanaimo for the years ending September 28, 1934. This shows that 274 records have been made, the total area of which is 82,340 acres. In addition to this, twenty-two records have been made of Crown lands on adjacent lots amounting to 2,430 acres. On and for these records fifty-nine certificates of improvement have been issued in the above time.

The Coal Harbor Lands—Under an agreement with the Canadian Pacific Railway syndicate, the local syndicate of landholders at Burrard Inlet responded to the call of the railway company to enable the railway company to prepare maps of the property conveyed to them and which they wish to place on the market at the same time as the other. It is now rumored that the time for disposing the sale of the syndicate lots has been or will be extended to a later date than December 1.

ST. JOHN AMBULANCE BRIGADE

Sir,—Last July The Colonist and Times very kindly published my views on the formation of an ambulance brigade. This was formed, and now has forty-five men and twelve ladies. Such success could not have been attained without the kind co-operation of the two local newspapers, to which I offer the thanks of the brigade. The chief of police, Thomas Heatley, very kindly allowed us the use of the police parade room each Friday, from 7:45 p.m. On each of these nights very interesting lectures are given by Dr. E. L. McNiven, who is the divisional surgeon, and practical instruction will be given by experienced and qualified instructors, commencing next Friday before the lecture. All members are asked to attend at 7:45 p.m. Anyone else having a first certificate with the St. John or St. Andrew is welcome. Teams will be formed and trained for the British Columbia and Dominion First Aid competitions.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Sir,—I read with interest in your issue of last Wednesday the report of Mr. Frank Partridge's courageous indictment of the laissez faire policy of our local Chamber of Commerce. To one who has long felt discouraged by the consistent decline in the usefulness of our local chamber, the courage of youth shown by the speaker comes as a refreshing surprise.

The slow decadence of an organization which should be, and is intended to be, an invigorating influence in our midst, cannot be wholly attributed to the depression. To me it is only too evident that those in authority have lost touch with the realities of our community and are still living in the bad old times when politics and personal aims took precedence over the common weal.

What we want is action—leadership, an aggressive policy for the betterment of the city. What we have been getting is Chamber of Commerce Government by a selected oligarchy. A Chamber of Commerce is necessary. We want it to be a force for good. If Mr. Frank Partridge can breathe on the present decadent institution and instill into it the courage of youthful enterprise, I for one am with him.

Let us wake up to facts. Let's be done with political gerrymandering and sacrosanct privileges. We want to keep abreast of the times. We want a Chamber of Commerce that can lead us, not one that holds back. J. O. STINSON,

NOTES FOR ORIENTALS

Sir,—In The Colonist newspaper of September 29, there appears a letter written by Mr. Earl Nelson, who considers himself a "real Canadian," but shows no more intelligence in the treatment of the problem than a prejudiced, narrow-minded, superstitious and old-fashioned gentleman. The views he presented are a disgrace to the intelligence of the average well-informed British citizen.

The term "Oriental," in itself, is vague and its meaning a subject of controversy. With no personal experience, I am direct, and I am with Orientals, upper, middle, or lower class, born in Canada or from the Orient—Mr. Nelson has no right to make general statements of an antagonistic nature. He cannot prove that Orientals are inferior or that they cannot be assimilated.

There is no "menace" whatever to the Province due to the presence of Orientals. On the other hand, they are an asset to Canada in that they play an important role in the development of the main industries of British Columbia. The menace to the East of British capitalists exercising economic control by investing huge sums in various industrial enterprises far exceeds the relatively insignificant menace to British Columbia so fearfully spoken of.

The question of enfranchisement of Orientals should be settled simply. Why should British Columbia keep up with her sister provinces by granting eligible Orientals the right to vote? Why should British Columbia be the only province in Canada where Orientals, educated and well qualified, cannot have the right of citizenship? It is because "real Canadians" in British Columbia still wish to be narrow, superstitious and selfish, refusing to accept a broader cosmopolitan outlook in a world growing smaller every day because of economic interdependence and rapid scientific progress in all phases of industrial life?

For heaven's sake, grant every honest, hard-working, intelligent, man-regardless of race—the right to citizenship and live up to the true principles of democracy and freedom.

BETTER DEAL IS ADVOCATED

Alan Chambers Makes Plea For Fairer Treatment of Vancouver Island

"What we need on Vancouver Island is an advocate of Vancouver Island at Ottawa, not an advocate of Ottawa on Vancouver Island. We want a representative that will pursue the interests of the Island with vigor and knowledge, and one who will see that the long-awaited better deal is secured," declared Alan Chambers, Liberal candidate in the Nanaimo Federal riding, when addressing a gathering in the Keating Temperance Hall last night.

"Never before has there been such a need for a better deal for Vancouver Island. It is a necessity that has been made more urgent with the passage of years owing to the indifference in the Island's welfare. I am an Island man, with Island interests at heart, and I think with the necessary vigor and knowledge to see that a better deal is obtained. If elected to the House of Commons, I will not rest until the Island is given fairer treatment," Mr. Chambers declared amid prolonged applause.

This declaration of Island policy came after Mr. Chambers had dealt with the election issues on a national scale, and put an entirely new note into his campaign.

SERVES COMMUNITY

"Since taking up my residence on this Island, I have endeavored to serve the community to the best of my ability, although not holding public office. I stand as the only candidate in the field who appeared before the Federal Commission of Inquiry on Relief Camps to present a brief on what I consider remedial measures that should be taken, after completing an eight-month tour of the sixty-five relief camps throughout the province.

"Further, I was the only candidate to appear before the Royal Commission inquiring into the coal industry, where I presented a brief for the improving of the coal industry on this Island. These things were done long before I was ever nominated or thought of being nominated to carry the Liberal banner in this election. Still further, I have put in two years' work in the lumber camps, and it was not office work, either. I know something of the manner in which our forest reserves are being treated in the name of business," Mr. Chambers declared.

In respect to farming, the speaker told of the year and a half he had spent studying the co-operative farm marketing in Denmark, and said he hoped to better acquaint himself with the fishing industry.

NATIONAL PARK

There was no reason, he declared, that this Island should not have a national park located on its West Coast, and there was no reason why the Dominion Government should not assist in both the development of that park and the construction of a suitable highway to it. One of Vancouver Island's chief industries was the tourist business, and this was how it could be best served, he asserted.

"I stand in the proud position, as an Island man in an Island constituency, of not having to import spellbinders from the Mainland to help me in the election. I feel that the people of this constituency realize the need of an Island man who will work in the Island's interest," Mr. Chambers said.

The Federal Government would be defeated at the polls, he believed, because it had failed to deal successfully with the unemployment question. Future governments also would be defeated unless they dealt with the matter successfully. He was not surprised, however, that the Bennett Administration had failed, because it had not availed itself of the most important weapon that could have been used in attacking the problem.

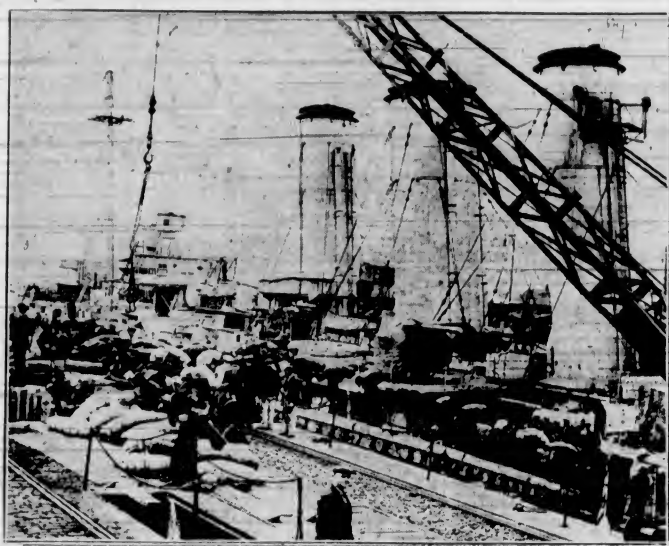

"Until we secure control of the greatest public utility we possess—national credit and currency, we cannot successfully solve the unemployment question, and the Liberal party stands pledged to secure control of national credit and currency," he declared.

SOCIAL REFORMS

Social reforms, designed to remodel the present financial system, could not be secured until the legal obstructions in the way of those reforms had been removed. These obstructions could only be overcome by amending the B.N.A. Act, and to do that all the provinces had to be in agreement. "What better opportunity could there be to amend the act than by returning a Federal Liberal Government? The agreement of the nine Provincial Legislatures has to be secured, and let me remind you that out of the nine eight are Liberal Provinces and the ninth Social Credit," Mr. Chambers asserted.

Supporting Mr. Chambers on the platform was his agent, Mr. Norman W. Whitaker, M.P.P. for Saanich.

CLAIMS HATRED INFLAMED HERE

Prof. King Gordon, C.C.F. Candidate, Explains Stand on Orientals

Opponents of the C.C.F. here are seeking to inflame racial hatred against Orientals in British Columbia to serve party ends, Prof. J. King Gordon, C.C.F. candidate in Victoria, charged last evening in addressing an audience at Margaret Jenkins School.

"There is no plank in the C.C.F. platform which refers specifically to the enfranchisement of Orientals. We stand for full economic, political and religious liberty for all," he declared.

If there was an Oriental problem in the province, he asserted that it had been caused by importation of Chinese to help build one of the railways. The Liberal Government had also made it possible for 150 Japanese to enter the province each year.

Prof. Gordon declared that Sir Herbert Holt was a greater power in Canada than any government had ever been. No matter which one of the old parties was in power at Ottawa, he felt that the same small group of financiers and industrialists who dictated Mr. Bennett's trade policies would hold all the members within the palms of their hands.

SAYS GAME IS UP

"As far as the old tactics of politicians are concerned, the game is up. People know that their wild promises can never be filled. Canadians want control over their lives and destinies," Prof. Gordon concluded.

Nigel Morgan, who supported Prof. Gordon, painted a gloomy picture of children starving, women driven to distraction, and many of the finest citizens committing suicide while gold reigned as god in Canada.

He told how many inventions which would benefit mankind were bought up by large corporations and buried forever. He gave the case of a motor which would draw electricity from the air, and consequently would interfere with the profit of power companies. He said the invention was bought up by the General Electric Corporation, and no more heard of it.

ETHIOPIA AND YOUTH

Mr. Morgan related how he heard a woman remark in the afternoon that the battlefields of Ethiopia would open up new channels to youth. He reminded the audience that every male citizen of over twenty-one was liable to conscription in Canada in case of war.

Machinery caused unemployment because it had been used in the interests of a few, he claimed. Under C.C.F. rule the machinery would be used for the good of all. Art and science would also be rapidly developed, he maintained.

"We Socialists know we are right and we must fight on until we establish an ideal state," Mr. Morgan concluded.

Miss "Pat" Stuart presided.

GIVES DETAILS OF PARK WORK

Reeve William Crouch Addresses Members of Victoria Rotary Club

Reeve William Crouch, for nine years chairman of the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee, yesterday, at the Empress Hotel gave members of the Rotary Club an insight into activities of that committee. He was introduced by Charles H. French.

Reeve Crouch related that the committee operated on an annual grant of $1,600 from the city and $550 from Saanich, but this year had been given $2,000 by Victoria and $800 by Saanich to administer Mount Tolmie, Mount Douglas, Elk Lake, Verdier, Cordova Bay and Island View parks.

Dealing with Mount Tolmie, he told how forty-four acres had been purchased from the Anglican Synod and a scenic road built over the top at a cost of $1,700. The road, he believed, opened up the finest panorama on Vancouver Island. About $2,000 more would be required to put the drive in first-class condition.

CORDOVA BAY WORK

At Cordova Bay a bathing house and conveniences and parking space for automobiles had been built. During the bathing season a man was employed to patrol the beach and keep it clean.

Mount Douglas Park, with its 391 acres, had been given a space for sports and a tea house with electric light and running water. Trails had been kept up and young trees protected.

Verdier Park, near the Mill Bay ferry, had been fitted with public conveniences, and it was planned to build a safe beach there for children.

At Island View Park, near Keating, a sun shelter had been erected and fresh water piped half a mile from a spring to the beach. Elk Lake, with its 408 acres of land and 600 acres of water, had been fitted up with picnic grounds, swimming floats and grounds for sports at a cost of $1,000.

IMPROVE GORGE

Although the committee was not directly concerned with Gorge Park, Reeve Crouch mentioned how the committee had built a concrete breakwater, asphalt paths, sanitary conveniences, dumped sand on the beach, strengthened the bathing house and provided an additional lifeguard in the summer. He told how there had been considerable unjust criticism when the committee routed the road at Mount Douglas Park to provide safety for children and when the road had been built over Mount Tolmie. Stressing the fact that members of Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee worked entirely voluntarily, the Reeve urged the Rotary Club to appoint a member to go with them on their annual Spring tour of beaches and parks.

Alderman James Adam conveyed a hearty vote of thanks to Reeve Crouch on behalf of the club.

DEPLORES LACK OF GOOD TUNES

Boston Editor Recalls Gusto Of Hymn Singing in Old Days

BOSTON, Oct. 3 (AP).—The Transcript says the devil is getting too many hymn tunes! No good new ones are being written.

"Many a man and woman going down the sunset side of life's divide, recall vivid childhood impressions of the fervor with which worshippers in American meeting houses used to sing the long-familiar hymns, especially when the tune was good. With what war-like roaring the grave men, with long beards and shaven upper lips, lifted up their voices when singing Luther's 'Ein Feste Burg.' How ecstatically the women, in voluminous skirts with sleek bands of hair drawn over their ears, dwelt upon the crescendo, the dying fall and the refrain of a hymn like Cowper's 'There is a Fountain Filled With Blood.'

GOSPEL TUNES

"This hearty joy in the Gospel tunes in some way made up to the singers for the repression of worldliness during the week. Their lives were in the main drab and uneventful. They were emotionally starved. They might not dance. They might not go to the circus or to the theatre. Playing cards was forbidden. There was moral death in a mug of beer. The game of authors in winter, croquet in summer, summed up the sanctioned secular recreations.

"Does not this explain why the Sunday meeting house services and the mid-week prayer meetings were crowded?"

When Sir Henry Irving played Hamlet

Those were spacious days in the annals of the British theatre—when Irving played Hamlet, Macbeth and King Lear. And while Irving was making new stage history, in the seventies and eighties, the EMU Company was blazing the trail on behalf of Australian Wines.

In those days considerable prejudice existed against Imperial wines, but to-day EMU wines are well known and well liked throughout the Empire.

EMU 444 and EMU 999 are the choicest White and Tawny Ports produced in Australia. Their quality will be an agreeable surprise to you and because of the tariff preference they enjoy when entering Canada, they cannot be equalled by Foreign Port, except at a much higher price.

Page on the death of her sister in England. Two new members, Mrs. M. A. Squires and Mrs. J. Polmeier, both of Cobble Hill, were accepted. ### Gorgeous Gowns Seen at Spencer's Style Display

Beauty of Line and Color Features Season's Modes—Classical Influence Strikes New Note in Design—Grandmother's Gown

The mode of tomorrow borrows from the ancient Greek its chic, simple lines. Its colors have been taken from the old masters, and there is real dreammaking and designing about the evening frocks which are being shown this season. The particularly attractively staged fashion show at David Spencer, Ltd., yesterday morning and afternoon was attended by a large crowd of fashion-conscious women, who were keenly interested in the lovely assortment of coats, suits, dresses and gowns and coats for evening wear, which were displayed by a most efficient and charming group of mannequins.

FOR EVENING

The evening gowns were specially striking. They are no mere "run-up" affairs, relying on a flower, a bow or a belt buckle as trimming. They are real gowns. Crisp tulle, diaphanous lace and soft clinging satin were the chief materials, and drapery seems to be the theme of the mode. Velvet had a high place in the materials, chiefly in black, the jewel shades and white. There were picture frocks of tulle reminiscent of the days when a dress could "stand by itself," so stiff was the silk. There were bustles, wing sleeves and graceful flowing capes and styles to suit every figure and age. For the "woman who has lived a little longer," there were some beautiful gowns, one particularly lovely was of deep pearly purple velvet with a yoke of shell pink georgette encrusted with diamante lines.

BEAUTIFUL WRAPS

The velvet evening coats were for the most part, as long as the frocks, and relied on fur collars or shirred velvet collars for attractive necklines. The sleeves were full and many of them, shirred. One of the loveliest coats for evening wear was of white stamped velvet and laced with a clipped white fur collar of generous proportions.

WEDDING GROUP

The bridal party, which was shown as a climax to the revue, was a symphony of color, in which the white satin wedding gown stood out like a many-faceted diamond. Amethyst, French violet, coraline and azure blue were the four bridesmaids' frocks of velvet, with rolled halter necklines and halo turbans to match. The two little flower girls wore dainty pleated frocks of shell pink satin trimmed with velvet and bows. The bride's veil was arranged in a halo above her forehead and hung in long filmy folds to the end of the train.

IMPORTED WOOLENS

Plaids and checks predominated in the sports suits of smart imported woollens from Vienna, and belted and semi-fitted coats were shown with either fur collars of astrakhan or wolf or made with choker necklines. Skirts for street wear are more abbreviated than last year and shoes with daytime clothes are of suede or sueded and leather combinations. In nearly every instance, the shade toned with the ensemble. One attractive afternoon model was made with a hoop hemline, the jaunty jacket being silk-frogged like a drum major's uniform.

OLD-WORLD GOWN

Great interest was found in the beautiful tulle gown which had been purchased by the late Mrs. Dorsette Rothchild from David Spencer, Ltd., in 1873. It was of bluish rose silk, whispering directly of its elegance, flaunting with quiet pride its ruffled bustles, its quaint lace-trimmed square neckline and sleeves, a charming example of old-world dignity, which has been reflected in many of the gowns for Winter 1935.

The style revue was held in the mantle department of the store, and long runways, artistically set up and fringed by flowers, afforded an excellent view. An orchestra was in attendance.

Couple at Otter Point Celebrate Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clark, "Glennwood," Otter Point, celebrated their golden wedding recently, with a family gathering of nineteen at dinner. Their family of three children, two daughters, Mrs. Henry Doves, of Duncan, and Mrs. George Davies, of Otter Point, with their respective husbands, and their son, Reginald and his wife, were all present. There are thirteen grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark were married in September, 1885, at Southampton, England, of which city they are both natives. Coming to the Pacific Coast in 1889, Mr. Clark was for a time in the State of Washington, leaving there the day of the great fire which laid Seattle in ruins, and coming to Victoria, where he was joined by Mrs. Clark a year later.

Favors Given To Guests at Autumn Party

A delightful afternoon was spent yesterday at the party arranged by Dr. O. M. Jones Chapter, I.O.D.E. in the dining-room of Spencer's Ltd. when the members entertained at an autumn bridge and mah-jong and afternoon tea party. It was through the efforts of Mrs. Fred Spencer, the general convenor, that the affair was such a success, there being twenty-five tables in progress.

Both auction and contract bridge were played and assisting Mrs. Spencer in the arrangements were Mrs. H. A. Stuart and Mrs. Walter M. Walker, while Miss Evelyn Ross was in charge of the receipts.

The guests were received by the regent, Mrs. William Ellis, and each tea guest received a lavender favor. ## Impressions of Jubilee Given by Mrs. Plaskett

Mrs. J. S. Plaskett was the speaker at yesterday's meeting of Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter, I.O.D.E., and emphasized very strongly the natural and kindly nature of Their Majesties the King and Queen. Mrs. Plaskett recently returned to Victoria with her husband, Dr. Plaskett, after a visit of five months in England, Scotland and France.

Several delightful incidents during the Jubilee celebration in London were recalled by the speaker. One incident occurred in which a policeman at a corner of a certain intersection in London was to bring a little girl to wake to the King and Queen as they passed by in their carriage. The child had been taken to England by her parents, and her father had written to the King asking if he would wave to her. "The correct instructions were followed and the little girl was given the real joy of knowing that Their Majesties had given her a special salutation for herself.

Her Majesty's sense of discipline had come to the fore when a chauffeur was handling little Princess Elizabeth out of the car. The chauffeur addressed the princess as "Madam," and the child replied, "I'm not madam, I'm a princess." Her royal grandmother, the Queen, turned to her and said, "You're a princess, and we hope that some day you will be a lady."

GOOD WILL ON EARTH

Never had she seen such "good will on earth," Mrs. Plaskett said, as during the time of the Silver Jubilee. She and Dr. Plaskett were fortunate in securing seats near Buckingham Palace, close to a loud speaker, and had the opportunity of seeing and hearing to excellent advantage. Mrs. Plaskett also spoke of being entertained at the home of the President of France and attending a dance which was held at the Observatory in Paris, and also a banquet held in the Eiffel Tower, Scotland, too, was visited by Dr. and Mrs. Plaskett, and the chair.

DUNCAN, Oct. 3.—The Cowichan District branch of the British Columbia Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals held a meeting at the Fire Hall, Duncan, yesterday for the purpose of electing officers to carry on the work locally. Capt. T. B. Matterson, of Cherry Point, agreed to carry on as president until someone who lived nearer Duncan could be persuaded to take office. Mrs. C. deC. Johnston was made secretary-treasurer. ## DUNCAN TEACHERS GRANTED HOLIDAY

Will Attend Convention at Nanaimo—School Board Deals With Parents' Petition

DUNCAN, Oct. 3.—At the regular monthly meeting of the Duncan Consolidated School Board held last night it was decided to grant a holiday on October 25, to give the teachers an opportunity to attend the Central Vancouver Island Teachers' Institute Convention, which is being held in Nanaimo. This leave was granted on the understanding that all teachers would attend.

The Duncan Parent-Teacher Association was thanked for supplying textbooks to needy children in the schools.

A report of the recent trustees' convention held at Harrison was submitted to the delegates, who were thanked for their report.

A petition signed by nineteen parents was submitted to the board complaining of what was considered unnecessary severity of discipline exercised by a member of the teaching staff. Two letters in support of the petition were also received, one complaining of the prevalence of hazing in this teacher's class. The matter was dealt with in committee, the school principal, H. E. Blanchard, attending. The board left the matter to be dealt with by the principal in a manner which it was believed would prevent a recurrence of complaints.

Craft Shoppe in City Celebrates Its Anniversary

The Needle Craft Shoppe, 713 Yates Street, now celebrates its first anniversary. Established twelve months ago, in the present location, the business has recorded an ever-increasing volume of trade, which speaks for the wide range of stock and the efficient service offered.

One of the most outstanding features of the popular store is the complete showing of imported wools, the product of James Templeton, Scotland, being largely featured. Knitting instruction is given from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. under the direction of Mrs. L. Thorburn, and this department has shown such growth as to make imperative the installation of a mezzanine floor construction on which will be commenced in the near future.

Fancy cushions, fine art needlework, fancy bedspreads and allied lines form another section of the store. Instruction in needle craft and lamp shade making is carried out under Mrs. E. Thorburn. The Needle Craft Shoppe is under the management of Miss H. Bennett.

WAR'S CAUSE IS ECONOMIC

Dean of Canterbury Expounds Social Credit for Local Audience

"The real roots of war do not lie in national antipathies but always in economic conditions, Mussolini, although he would be the last to suspect it, is a pawn in the hands of bigger interests, and our shrewdest English statesmen know it," declared Dr. H. H. Johnson, B.Sc., A.M.E.I.C., Dean of Canterbury, internationally-known proponent of the Douglas Social Credit theory, in the course of his expounding of the system given at the Empire Theatre here last evening.

Picturesque, unconsciously dramatic, although smilingly apologetic, he resorted to gesture so frequently in dealing with a subject of mathematical argument, Dean Johnson held the fascinated attention of his listeners while he expounded Social Credit, national discount, national dividend and all that these imply in relation to real and possible wealth of a community or a nation.

In an adjustment between money and prices lay the solution of the economic problem, which accounted for unemployment, poverty and the paradoxical condition of millions going hungry and without the necessities of life while milk was being poured down the gutters, potatoes and wheat being destroyed, and other commodities and services withheld, the speaker maintained.

A few simple illustrations were given to illustrate the argument in support of the Douglas Social Credit theory of "scientifically" balancing production and purchasing power.

A motor car factory created three things: Cars, prices, and money or purchasing power. If the purchasing power of the people did not balance the prices asked for the cars, the output of the factory would not be sold, wages and salaries would shrink, and the inevitable would follow. On the other hand, if the money issued were to be adequate for the purchase of all the cars produced, then the total prices must not exceed the total money issued. Prices must take cognizance of wages, salaries and dividends. But the wages, salaries and dividends formed the source of purchasing power. If other items were included in the price, the total money stream could not claim the total goods stream. Unfortunately depreciation of machinery, buildings and other factory equipment had to be taken into consideration and charged to prices, the result being that the price stream became greater than the money stream, with resulting shortage of purchasing power, curtailing of production, a possible glut of goods, and a possible glut of money.

Under the existing economic system, the shortage was made up by waste, destruction, war. Goods unsaleable in the home market, although there might be many people there wanting cars, were sent to foreign markets so long as the world market was open. But in a world where so many nations were industrialized foreign markets were not so available, every other nation was itself seeking a foreign market. Dean Johnson pictured the next cycle of operations in making up the shortage in the hypothetical car factory: new works might be established to make more cars, and from wages and salaries paid to those who built and furnished the new

MUSICAL PICTURE IS AT DOMINION

Dick Powell Plays Leading Role in "Page Miss Glory"—Marion Davies Co-Star

Many singers with exceptional voices coddle them and use them only when with their teachers or when singing for some great audience.

But not Dick Powell! Dick, who would rather be considered an actor than a singer, chirps pretty much all day long around the Warner Bros. studio. His latest role is the romantic lead in Marion Davies' Cosmopolitan comedy, "Page Miss Glory," which comes to the Dominion Theatre today, as her first Warner Bros. release.

Powell portrays the role of an aviator who once flew a lion from Africa to Florida, and in the dramatic action of "Page Miss Glory" is shown flying some life-saving serum to a flock of quadruplets just born in Nome, Alaska.

In this picture Dick and Miss Davies sing a catchy song written by Warren and Dublin, who have turned out most of the year's big song hits.

PLAYHOUSE Thurston Hall, one of the early features of silent pictures and since a star of the New York and London stage, returns to the screen in a featured role supporting Ann Sothern and Gene Raymond in RKO-Radio's new musical comedy-drama, "Hooray for Love," now at the Playhouse Theatre.

The "Hooray for Love" cast includes Pert Kelton, Lionel Stander, "Fats" Waller, Etienne Girardot, Maria Gambarelli, Georgia Calne and the colored dancing stars, Bill Robinson and Jini LeGon.

CAPITOL Philanderings of a debutante on air artist in Vienna, complications over past love affairs and a scrape over the portrait of a married woman that gets into print are among the details that provide a story of whimsical humor and gripping drama, lulling music and Continental romance.

W. A. Mattice Says Ottawa Marking Time Until After Election—Reports Better Business

Not even Ottawa is sure what the result of the Federal election will be, remarked W. A. Mattice, manager of the Ottawa branch of the Dominion Bridge Company, during an interview at the Empress Hotel yesterday.

With this uncertainty many business dealings and other affairs at the capital were marking time until after October 14, he intimated.

His company had enjoyed a good local summer business, the visitor reported, saying the Ottawa plant had increased its work. The company has experienced increased business for the last two years, he added.

Accompanied by his wife, Mr. Mattice is here for a short holiday. They are pleased with Victoria and British Columbia generally.

Pile Sufferers Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know the real cause of piles is on the inside?

Do you know they can be doctored from the inside?

Do you know you must get at and remove the cause of Piles, to get rid of them?

The real cause of piles is poor circulation—a congestion of blood in the veins of the lower bowel. This makes the veins flabby, full of impure congested blood and weakens the rectal membranes.

So if you would have relief from piles you should use an internal medicine like HEM-ROID, a prescription written by Dr. J. S. Leonard. HEM-ROID banishes piles by relieving the cause. It stimulates circulation, eases the pressure of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and helps to heal and restore the sore, tender parts.

HEM-ROID is so successful in even the most stubborn cases that MacFarlane and Vancouver Drug Stores, or any other good druggist, is authorized to make good our promise to you that if you are not completely satisfied with the results from one bottle, you may have your money back—(Adv.)

LOG CABIN TO BE IMPROVED

Goldstream Tearoom to Be Kept Operating All Year Round by Caretaker

Expenditure of $135 on the log cabin tearoom at Goldstream Park so that the place could be put in condition for operation all year was authorized by the City Council at its meeting yesterday morning.

Alderman Walter Lunney, however, opposed the expenditure. The advantages to be secured from such an expenditure were advanced by the acting mayor and several of the aldermen, the chief contention being that by improving the log cabin the city would be enabled to maintain a caretaker there throughout the winter months, and at the same time give service to the public during the hunting season, and also that it would be protecting the city's investment.

Gladys Glad On Beauty

Honey, I believe, is a cosmetic that is age-old. Famous beauties of the past have used it often.

Honey is nourishing and refining in its effects on the skin. But I think that its properties are most enhanced when it is used as a face mask. When combined with the proper ingredients, honey forms an excellent mask. It draws dirt particles to the surface, and bleaches and clears the skin, giving it a soft, satin-like finish.

Before the honey pack is applied to the face, a mask should be made of a square of cheesecloth or fine gauze. Holes should be cut into the cheesecloth or gauze mask for the eyes and mouth. And the paste itself should then be prepared. To prepare this paste, enough strained honey should be mixed with half a cup of almond meal to make a thick, creamy mixture. A few drops of witch hazel or rosewater should then be added, and the entire mixture blended until it is of a consistency that will spread easily and smoothly over the skin.

CLEANSING COMES FIRST

Previous to the actual application of the mask itself, the skin should be thoroughly cleansed. Then the cheesecloth mask should be placed over the face, and a generous quantity of the honey and almond paste should be spread over it. In order to give the proper results, this paste should be allowed to remain on the face for at least half an hour. After this time has elapsed, the paste may be removed simply by lifting off the cheesecloth mask.

Then any honey that has seeped through the cheesecloth or gauze should be removed from the skin surface with a soft cloth and tepid water.

The final step should be the application of a good astringent, in order to close the pores and tone up the skin. This mask will not only have a soothing, refining effect on the skin, but will help to bleach it, to clear it, and to give it a smooth, velvety appearance.

Editor's Note: To obtain Miss Glad's pamphlet on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture," write care of Central Press Canadian, Toronto, enclosing a self-addressed envelope stamped with a 3-cent stamp and 10 cents in coin for each cover cost of printing and handling.

Preparations for War by Italians In Talking News

STRIKING scenes of the war preparation in Italy and Ethiopia as the League of Nations grapples with the world peace situation, are featured in the current issue of The Colonist-Universal Newsreel, now showing at the Dominion Theatre. Meanwhile, Great Britain anticipates the League's verdict, and is shown sending a transport ship filled with soldiers to Malta, as France gives warning to Mussolini by giant war manoeuvres near the Italian border.

Other news items include: dramatic scenes as thousands see Huey Long buried on the Louisiana Capitol lawn; a huge ice factory fire in Brooklyn, N.Y., where two men were killed and several injured, and Mike and Mike, two flashing chimpanzees displaying their technique near Venice, Calif.

Also pictured are scenes of a historic regatta of gaily decorated gondolas on the Grand Canal in Venice, Italy; expert horsemanship and thrilling spills at the Pendleton, Ore., twenty-sixth annual round-up; Lawson Little, Jr., winning the United States amateur golf title in the most spectacular play ever seen in non-professional golf; and Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Good Gamble, at 10 to 1, winning the Aqueduct Handicap by a nose while the favorite, King Saxon, comes in third and is disqualified.

LOCAL SQUAD WILL OPPOSE ROYALS IN INITIAL ENCOUNTER

Victoria United Expected to Field Strong Team For First Inter-City League Match of Season — North Shore Squad Coming Here for a Game on Thursday, October 24

Local soccer fans will get their first glimpse of the 1935-36 edition of the Victoria United eleven on Saturday, October 12, when the locals stack up against the visiting New Westminster Royals in an Inter-City League fixture at the Royal Athletic Park. Announcement of the fixture was made yesterday evening by J. R. Jones, secretary of the Victoria committee of the British Columbia Football Commission.

Twelve days later, on October 24, Thanksgiving Day, Victoria United will play its second home match of the present season with the North Shore squad providing the opposition. Times for the kick-offs of the matches have yet to be set.

LEAGUE LINE-UP

Six clubs, New Westminster Royals, St. Brevins, Rangers, North Shore, Nanaimo United and Victoria United will compete in the league during the 1935-36 season. The schedule of fixtures calls for ten games, with each club playing at home and away with the other eleven in the league. The club with the largest point-total at the end of the series will become the Inter-City Football League champions. In case of a tie a sudden-death play-off game will be played with the championship going to the winning eleven.

Victoria United enjoyed a most successful season last year and finished at the top of the point-standings. A post season play-off series was tentatively billed, but had to be canceled because of unfavorable weather and at the present time the commission has not declared a winner. The fixture is still in abeyance pending a final decision by the British Columbia soccer body.

GOOD PROSPECTS

Prospects of another good club carrying Victoria's colors into inter-city competition this season look exceptionally bright, and while it is too early to make any predictions as to the probable line-up, there is a

The clubs are deadlocked at one game each in the battle for the championship. The Cubs won the first game at Navin Field, Detroit, 3-0, only to have the Tigers come back and take yesterday's fixture, 8-5.

TICKET SCALPERS ARE COMPLAINING

Finding It Difficult to Dispose of World Series Ducats for Desired Prices

CHICAGO, Oct. 3 (AP).—Scalpers of world series tickets were grumbling tonight that the scalps weren't as plentiful as they ought to be.

As a result of their over-estimation of the local "sucker crop" scalpers' prices for the ducats were around $35 for the grandstand and $50 for the box seats for the games expected to be played here. Regular prices for these seats are $16.50 and $19.80 respectively.

The scalpers, who reportedly obtained large blocks of seats at the public sale yesterday by hiring "standees" to act for them, had expected enthusiasm for the Cubs would make possible prices of $50 for the grandstand and $80 for the box seats.

ADVERTISING SALES

In one block in the loop district eight signs advertising the sale, exchange or purchase of series tickets were counted.

An investigation into the seat sale by Commissioner of Police James Allan brought suspension of six policemen assigned to patrol the waiting line at Wrigley Field yesterday. A number of customers complained that preferred places in the line were given to certain individuals.

Soccer Chatter

By A.F.A.N.

Evidently soccer is not losing its hold on the public. Close to one million fans watched the opening games of the English League, and every newspaper in the country found that it had to devote extra pages to the news and views of sports writers in all parts, North, South, East and West.

And yet, what a sober old game it is! The first day of a new season is not marked by any fanfare of trumpets, no street parade celebrates the event, and practically no ballyhoo is given to the public for the simple reason that there is no need to work up any sense of excited anticipation.

Even here in Victoria, we just went out to the park, and two captains and the referee met in the centre of the field, and the game was on; just as if there had been no break since the last game of the season.

Of course there is the mild excitement of seeing new faces, or of missing old ones, and that brings us to talk about our own Louis De Costa, who had to look on from the stand while Hood very effectively held his job down for him. Every one, of course, hopes that Louis is not out of the game for keeps, and that he will again give us the thrills that we expect of him.

It seems that the powers that be are determined to offer goalkeepers all the protection that is theirs by right. No longer will referees allow goals to be scored by sheer brutality or a rushing, kicking forward; the goalkeeper must now be beaten by clever football, he must be out-guessed, not overpowered. And all for the good of the game.

But some of the innovations that have been suggested during the off-season are not quite so valuable. Victrolas, for instance, will smile at the rumored suggestion from a Vancouver club that we close down for a month or two in mid-Winter, commencing a second half-season in the early Spring.

Apart from the fact that ours is a Winter game, and that early Summer soccer is most unfair to baseball, football, cricket, tennis and horsehoes, it has often enough been possible and pleasant for us to play soccer on every successive Saturday throughout December and January.

Do coming events cast their shadows before them? In a charity game in the Old Country between England and Scotland a substitute was used to take the place of an injured man.

Some fans think that it was not very wise of the officials of the Wednesday League to refuse even to meet the local governing body, if the press reports of an invitation to do so was correct. Without a meeting, how did they even know what the representatives of organized ball had to offer? All other things being equal, there is no doubt of the advantages to be derived by players and clubs alike from regular affiliation.

The City, as usual, started off in fine form. Let's hope they can keep it up this season. With a strengthened back division, all they seem to need now is a really capable centre forward. But that is the great need of all the clubs, and we did not see much promise on Saturday.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX MORRISON

The habit of leaving footprints and holes made in digging into the sand makes it tough for many players. The fellow who is off his game has trouble enough without having his ball come to rest in a footprint in a bunker. There may be only one such hole in the sand, yet it seems to attract the ball.

Several clubs recently have adopted measures to rid the traps of these holes. The caddy is supplied with a bamboo or hardwood rake. He follows his player and smooths over any marks he may leave in the sand. It's a great idea and one that in time should keep all sand hazards in the best of condition.

Even if your caddy doesn't have such a rake, take an iron club and cover up any holes you make. Your fellow players will appreciate it.

Champion to Meet New York Boxer in Fifteen-Round Mix

Madison Square Garden to Be Scene of Title Bout — Canzoneri Is Favored to Defeat Al Roth, Rugged Puncher From New York's Bronx District, This Evening

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP).—That great little fighting machine, Tony Canzoneri, one of the best little men of all time, squares off in defence of his newly-won lightweight crown tomorrow night, when he faces Al Roth, a rugged puncher from New York's Bronx, in a fifteen-round engagement in Madison Square Garden. It will be another episode in the chapter of Teacher vs. Pupil. Like Lou Ambers, whom Canzoneri beat for his title last May, Roth served a part of his apprenticeship as a sparring partner of Canzoneri, and critics have installed Tony favorite, betting that history will repeat itself and the old master will give the former pupil a good boxing lesson. One of the ring's grand war horses, he won the featherweight title in 1923 by beating Benny Bass in the finals of the elimination tournament, and since has held both the lightweight and junior welterweight championships.

He has twice sat at the head of the lightweight class. In 1930 he beat Al Singer, only to lose to Barney Ross three years later. Then, when Ross abdicated the throne, Tony whipped Lou Ambers, the New York State Athletic Commission's No. 1 challenger, in an elimination tournament. Although he has been battling around the front of the 135-pound division for two years, Roth made his first real bid for attention a few months ago by decisively defeating both Leonard Del Venio and Davey Day, the latter a stablemate of Ross and the Chicago Boxing Commission's No. 1 challenger.

It up this season. With a strengthened back division, all they seem to need now is a really capable centre forward. But that is the great need of all the clubs, and we did not see much promise on Saturday.

Saenich had no forward line, and it is to be hoped that they will have been able to sign up a few goal-getters from somewhere before they play again. It looks very much as though they will have to play Crose, Essler, Harper and two others in the front line.

Esquimalt provided the most welcome surprise of the day when, after a season in the doldrums, they came out with a rebuilt model of a team, with the only effective forward line of the afternoon, and with old Joe Watt, who was supposed to have seen his day some years ago, playing a brilliant defence game, and with a very well-deserved victory to their credit.

The Westa put up a good fight and made the second game much faster than the first, but they were always a beaten team, and the pace and the temperance combined to teach them the folly of turning out minus practice and minus training.

The referee problem is still with us, and one local sport was asked if he knew enough about the game to referee it, to which his reply was: "I know enough about the game not to referee it." Now, what did he mean by that?

There is some hope that the City Council, or rather, the parks board, is feeling inclined to supply the need of showers at the Athletic Park in the near future. Accent on the "near," please.

Victoria United have been accepted again in the Inter-City League, and we believe, accepted with thanks. Even on the Mainland, Victoria was pointed to last season as the brightest spot in this part of the soccer world. What would it have been had the United gone after the Dominion championship?

Security Prices Turn Upward at New York Mart

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP).—Wall Street took a grip on the war-torn nerves today. The stock market dipped initially, held, and then staged a good rally.

A number of active issues in the share field ended with gains of 1 to 2 points. However, commodities eagerly bought Wednesday, were today mostly steady.

The actuality of armed conflict abroad apparently proved less disconcerting than had been feared. It was noted that the beginning of hostilities had not brought with it the flood of foreign selling feared.

A 6 of a point advance was registered by the Associated Press average of sixty stocks at 47.9. The industrials and utilities did best with rails lagging on fears as to the financial fate of some of the weaker carriers.

Dealings in the Stock Exchange were active at the opening of trading on slightly lower prices, quickly settled down to a calm pace as stocks began to retrace a fair proportion of Wednesday's losses.

Turnover was 1,499,180 shares. Some of the active shares which lifted 1 to 2 points or so included Westinghouse at 75, American Can at 140-1/2, Chrysler at 71-3/4, Bethlehem at 36-1/4, and New York Central at 21-1/4. Among gainers of a point or so were General Motors, Southern Pacific and General Electric.

The bond market displayed a better tone today despite nervousness over East African developments. Italian obligations broke sharply but came back later. Other foreign issues were mixed. In the domestic list, Murray Corporation 5-1/2% 1940-45, 122-1/2; 5-1/2% 1940-45, 122-1/2.

WHEAT GAINS FRACTIONALLY

Profit-Taking and Hedging Sales Keep Winnipeg Futures From Advancing

WINNIPEG, Oct. 3 (AP).—Rains in Argentina washed out the effects of a rise in Chicago on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Wheat prices closed only 1-1/4 to 3-1/2 cents over yesterday's close after being 2-1/4 cents higher, with October 90-1/2 and May 91-1/4 to 3-8.

Profit-taking, hedging sales and offerings credited to the Canadian Wheat Board combined to outweigh buying impelled by the march of Italian troops into Emperor Haile Selassie's empire.

Rains in Argentina brought about reaction at Buenos Aires, which in turn served to encourage bearishness here.

But before the advance was wiped out the May future had been pushed up to $1.02 1/4—a level not reached since that option sold at $1.02 5-8 on July 18, 1933. Export sales totaled 750,000 bushels.

Cash wheat and coarse grains were quiet.

FLIGHT...by W. D. TIPTON and J. H. MASON

By the time the World War ended, Charles Nungesser had stopped more German lead than any recorded Allied soldier. His list of injuries included a fractured jaw, concussion of the brain, broken collar bone, dislocated knee, a broken ankle, a dislocated wrist, a bullet in the mouth, and shell splinters in the arm. He was shot down more often than any other airman.

His great success was due to pure daring and recklessness, plus flying and shooting skill of high order. He was one of the very few "wild men" to come through the war. The ranking Allied ace, Bishop, Ponck and Rickenbacker, of again.

MAD GENIUS

"Great wits," wrote Dryden in his "Absalom and Achitophel," published over three centuries ago, "are sure to madness near allied."

The idea that every genius is a bit mad, resulting in the matter-of-fact expression "mad genius," may or may not upon investigation hold water; but that it is an ancient as well as modern impression is worth noting.

Seneca was probably the earliest in his characterization of outstanding talent when he dogmatized: "There is no great genius without a tincture of madness."

Aristotle softened the blow somewhat by extending the field in averting that "no excellent soul is exempted from a mixture of madness."

However, for spreading the impact by encompassing about as wide a group as can be imagined and thereby assuaging the sting completely, the palm must be awarded to that possible astute Quaker who complained to his wife luxuriously: "We live in a sad world, mother, in which everybody is mad but thee and me. And times there be when I doubt our very selves!"

Perhaps the title of this story should be "Aren't We All!"

Children have their own peculiar way of expressing themselves. "Well, Peggy," said the neighbor, "and how do you like your new governess?"

Peggy thought a moment and then said: "I half-like her and I half-don't like her, but I think I half-don't like her the most."

CHAPTER LVIII

Val went swiftly through the house in search of his wife. Garneine had come to join him and they finally returned to the bedroom to stare at each other with growing apprehension. As his eyes darted about summing up the situation Val saw that the fringed shawl was missing. An uncovered box with the powder spilled out as if used hastily stood on top of the dressing table. The noise he had heard when he had first gone in to talk to Garneine must have been caused by the flask of perfume that had been knocked to the floor. It still lay there with the loosened stopper slowly dripping its contents into the carpet.

Where could the girl have gone? She had no close friends. If she had sought refuge at Sue's and found no one at home, she surely would have returned by this time.

"Her purse is there in the drawer," he told Garneine, "and she could not have ventured far in the clothes she was wearing."

The man's eyes avoided his. "I think she hasn't gone far," he snapped.

"Do you know where she is?" Val demanded.

The man shrugged. "She has probably gone to Cordray," he answered shortly.

"What makes you say that?"

"She is very friendly with the man," he held out a restraining hand as Val swung toward the door.

"Mind," he called hastily, "I make no accusations. Only see that the slate is clean if you really intend to make a fresh start with her."

Val's face darkened. When Lia knew he would not take her away, had she turned to Cordray? "If that is where she is," he said, "I can settle all this very quickly."

Garneine broke in, "Think it over for a bit," he urged. "If Lia has any foolish notion of telling him the truth about herself, you may be sure she'll be sent home speedily enough. Remember you are an officer. No use in involving yourself in an open quarrel with this fellow—in a scandal that might cause you trouble because of attending publicly."

"I shan't do anything they can hang me for," Val assured him grimly. "But I must find Lia and bring her home. And while I am about it I shall see to it that, hereafter, Cordray lets my wife alone."

Val came out into a night that was hot and smoldering with the tangy breath of forest fires. The wind had died. The thick clouds closed in oppressively. Something electric, portentous, seemed to hang in the atmosphere, as the storm crouched waiting to strike. At the yard gate the marine on duty gave him a smart salute. But the marine's sidelong glance confirmed the young officer's suspicion that the sentry had marked Lia's strange attire and, perhaps, distraught manner when she had passed this way; and although Val longed to ask the chap what direction she had taken, he could not bring himself to it.

He walked quickly the short distance from the gate to the wall surrounding Cordray's grounds, then turned in at the main driveway and strode along the curving path to the entrance. Taki, the Japanese butler, answered his ring and greeted him harshly. His jaw was sternly set. "Mr. Cordray just finished dressing. Footman Preston," he said smilingly. "He is in studio. I tell him you are here."

"I'll come with you," Val replied shortly. He was puzzled when the man offered no opposition and seemed undisturbed. Surely if Lia were in the house he would have acted differently. And yet where else could she have been for the last three-quarters of an hour?

The young man's mouth was a harsh line, his jaw was sternly set but he was filled with uncertainty when Taki announced him. Cordray, an imposing handsome figure in dinner clothes, was at the far end of the studio bending over a vase that held the block of wood he was fashioning into a mask. At the sound of Taki's voice he glanced up hastily, then met Val's cordial and unperturbed smile. "Hello, there, Preston," he called heartily. "This is nice of you to drop in. Have a good leave?"

"Very pleasant, thanks."

Val's swift glance about the room had told him there was no other occupants. The Japanese had followed him through the door and stood waiting. Cordray kept on with his work. "Taki was just about to bring me a cocktail," he said. "Any particular kind you would like?"

"None for me. I wish to speak with you alone."

The man looked suddenly across at him and Val wondered whether he were stalling for time when he said, "Be with you in a minute. I'm just ironing out a time that has eluded me. I was just about to call a while ago." He called to the butler, "Wait, Taki. Mr. Preston may change his mind. And I'm not sure but that I'd prefer a highball to a cocktail."

FOOTBALL FIELD WILL BE SEEDED

Seeding of the football field at Douglas and Niagara Streets will be undertaken tomorrow. All draining and grading work having been completed. The field, however, will not be ready for two years, W. H. Warren, park superintendent, stated. Seeding of the James Bay playground, near Macdonald Park, has been completed, and harvesting of potatoes from the undeveloped grounds at Macdonald Park is now being done. The potatoes will be used for relief families and civic institutions. A good crop was secured.

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

BREATH ODORS

"Offensive odor of the breath is often a matter of considerable importance to those afflicted, and medical advice is occasionally sought. The fact that the odor may arise from some trouble in the mouth, throat or bronchial tubes is well recognized. But in some cases no trouble exists and yet the odor persists."

I am quoting Drs. Howard W. Haggard and Leon A. Greenburg, New Haven in The Journal of the American Medical Association. It has been suggested that the air coming from the lungs is tainted by the blood coming from some part of the body where trouble exists. It has also been suggested that the odor arises from saliva (the digestive juice of the mouth) or even from the stomach itself.

However, Drs. Haggard and Greenburg are of the opinion that the odor comes from the mouth or throat and show the results obtained in experiments with a number of individuals who had eaten onion or garlic. Usually the breath loses its odor within a few hours, but in occasional individuals even small amounts of onion or garlic in soups, sauces, or salads taint the breath for several days.

As a rule, in the past, little relief could be given for this condition except by disguising the odor with the use of mouth washes containing aromatic oils.

After careful investigation it was found that the odor after eating onion and garlic is from little particles that remained in about the mouth and teeth. It would seem reasonable to suppose then that brushing the teeth and tongue with soap and water and rinsing the mouth would remove the odor, but they did not do so.

Even brushing the teeth and tongue with a thirty per cent solution of alcohol in water failed to remove the odor.

However, the experiments showed that the breath can be immediately and completely rid of the odor by washing the teeth and tongue with a solution of chloramine. The chloramine, thus liberated in the mouth reacts chemically with the essential oils—garlic and onion—and deodorizes (removes odor) them. It is probable that many cases of foul breath from other causes could be removed by the same treatment.

Chloramine is not a proprietary drug and can be brought from your druggist. The chlorine odor is itself unpleasant and the druggist may have to add something to disguise or sweeten it.
